How the Bible View of God Was “Morphed” into a New Definition of God

How do you “morph,” cleverly change, one into two or three? And hope that no one has spotted what you are doing?! Churchgoers seem to be so little concerned about where their official beliefs come from. They have politely and tacitly taken on board a lot of tradition unexamined. But did not Jesus warn very severely about the danger of “tradition learned by heart”? Quoting Isaiah 29:13-14, Jesus tried to impress a powerful truth on us all: “Because this people draw near to Me with their words and honor Me with their lip service, but their reverence for Me consists of tradition learned by rote, I will once again deal marvelously with them.” The warning is threatening and clear.

Yes, Jesus cited these words in Matthew 15:8 and Mark 7:6. Note also the frustration of Ezekiel (33:31-33, please read) who found his audiences stubborn and unresponsive! The distinguished Bible scholar F.F. Bruce wrote to me many years ago and observed most astutely:

“Evangelical Protestants can be as much servants of tradition as Roman Catholics or Greek Orthodox Christians; only they do not realize that it is ‘tradition.’ People who adhere to sola scriptura [‘the Bible only’] (as they believe) often adhere in fact to a traditional school of interpretation of sola scriptura” (correspondence, June 13, 1981).

Back to our topic of subtly turning ONE into TWO, hoping that no one will spot the trick. You either omit to say clearly that you are dealing with ONE, or you make the ONE as vague and difficult as possible so that no one sees when you are turning it into TWO or THREE. The morphing then takes place by imperceptible, almost unnoticeable steps and shifts, via waffling language, full of foggy terms, to arrive at 2 or 3! Compare the Church of England bishop, A. H. Newman, who became a Roman Catholic. Here is what he admitted, with refreshing honesty, about the amazingly complex doctrine of the Trinity:

“The Trinity is a contradiction, indeed, and not merely a verbal contradiction, but an incompatibility in the human ideas conveyed. We can scarcely make a nearer approach to an exact enunciation of it, than of saying that one thing is two things” (Sadler’s Gloria Patri, p. 39, A. H. Newman).

This clever moving from one idea to another, unnoticed, amounts to a conjuring, card shark trick — using misdirection! “Misdirection” is a term used by conjurers when they make you look in one direction so that you do not notice something else which they hope you will not see!

The danger over muddle, fudging or complexity concerning the most basic of all teachings, Who is God, needs our earnest attention, full and sustained concentration. It matters very much to a jealous God, the God of Israel and of Jesus, that we define Him truthfully and biblically with Jesus as our Master rabbi and teacher. That is why Jesus, when asked about the “Greatest Commandment of all” — the one which we really must not get wrong — replied with the monumentally and centrally important Shema (Mark 12:29, citing Deut. 6:4; 4:35): “Listen, Israel, the Lord our God is one.” He is One Person. “He is alone and there is no God besides Him.” He is the “our one Lord” of Daniel 3:17 (in the LXX, Greek). Thousands upon thousands of singular personal pronouns, I, Me, Myself, Thou, Thee, Thyself, He, Him, Himself, My, Thy, His, Mine, Thine, define who God is and how many He is. They define the true God in terms which your young children can understand easily. God did not “mess with us” when He insisted that we define Him accurately. To say that one has to be a learned scholar of languages or philosophy to understand who the true God is, is to imply that the Bible is not for us all!

The Bible is meant to be understood in its most basic propositions and truths. The Trinity is a teaching which most churchgoers cannot explain at all. They have in most cases no idea how the idea of a Triune God came to be the heart of what everyone must believe!

The Trinity took centuries of post-biblical, furious argumentation, before an Emperor finally insisted that the believers stop arguing and settle on the “only right” view. They then called this “orthodoxy,” right belief. Eventually the sword was used to enforce that “right view.”

But was any of this in any way justified? What do you think about these quotations from highly-schooled Bible experts:

“Must be admitted by everyone who has the rudiments of an historical sense that the doctrine of the Trinity formed no part of the original message. St. Paul did not know it, and would have been unable to understand the meaning of the terms used in the
It did not seem to trouble them that the creed of Jesus was being made redundant!

Note this carefully from a leading authority on what the church “fathers” did: “The Church Fathers’ conception of the Trinity was a combination of Jewish [i.e. Jesus’] monotheism and pagan polytheism, except that to them this combination was a good combination. In fact it was to them an ideal combination of what is best in Jewish monotheism [Jesus’ creed] and of what is best in pagan polytheism, and consequently they gloried in it and pointed to it as evidence of their belief…The Christian conception of God, argues Gregory of Nyssa [leading Church Father], is neither the polytheism of the Greeks nor the monotheism of the Jews [of Jesus!] and consequently it must be true.”

Show this information to your good friends and invite some reflection on what Jesus called “the greatest of all the commandments” (Mark 12:28-34).

It is standard information in all the big dictionaries and encyclopedias that Judaism, based on its Scriptures, believed God to be a single Person, a single undifferentiated Divine Self. That is what I and many others call unitary monotheism or unipersonal monotheism. This is often referred to as strict monotheism, although this last phrase could be ambiguous for some.

The Bible is turned into chaos if one superimposes non-biblical, philosophical language onto its simple realism. God is said to be a single Self (He calls Himself a nephesh, soul, self) thousands and thousands of times. This is the massive, pervasive and obvious evidence to be dealt with.

Dr. Murray Harris in his intensive study of God and Jesus said this about the Hebrew Bible and its view of God and his personal name YHVH: “Being a proper noun and the covenant name of Israel, God (Yahweh) is invariably the name of a Person who sustains relationships with other persons.”

The Shema (Deut. 6:4; 4:35; 1 Cor 8:4-6) and the whole of Scripture convinced Judaism and NT Christians always to believe in unitary monotheism. Thus at Oxford, the Regius Professor of Theology lecturing on the Trinity said of the OT, “Judaism was always unitarian.”

The major point to be taken in is that Jesus affirmed that unitary monotheism of Judaism (Mark 12:28-34). The Jew who agreed with Jesus showed that Jesus was entirely Jewish in his description of who God is. One single Self. The Jew echoed back Jesus words by saying “there is no other except Him.” It takes no special learning to know that “Him” is one “who” — one Self.

---

2 Dr. A. T. Hanson, Professor of Theology, University of Hull, The Image of the Invisible God, SCM Press, 1982.
3 Paul Schrodt, The Problem of the Beginning of Dogma in Recent Theology, p. 121.
one Person! Some would urge that the Shema makes no proposition one way or the other about how many Persons God is! This is not true at all. What good is a creed if it is so unclear? It really impugns the integrity of Holy Scripture (and Jesus said that “salvation is from the Jews”), if we are unable to give a clear meaning to the Shema.

I need only quote four sources which are echoed by many:

“Abraham, Moses and Elijah were all equally zealous monotheists and in none of their successors was there any retrogression from the highest and purest form of unitarian belief.”

“The monotheism of the Jews was then, as it is still, unitarian.”

“Judaism has always been rigorously unitarian.”

“Judaism [is] Unitarian.”

Jesus agreed with the Jews in Mark 12:29, and as Dr. Dennis Nineham says in his commentary on Mark, this passage is meant to demonstrate that Jesus was thoroughly orthodox in his description of God.

These non-complicated facts should settle our discussion, since we are all agreed that our Christian task is to follow the teaching of Jesus.

Some Trinitarians suggest that in John 10:30 Jesus introduced something new. In this case Jesus was less than honest in his reply to the friendly Jew! But who today in commentary advances John 10:30 as any sort of Trinitarian proof? So the argument is defeated. Jesus did not change his mind on the definition of God. Nor did Paul when he affirms the same Shema in 1 Corinthians 8:4-6. Jesus said that he and the Father were working in perfect harmony as “one thing” in John 10:30. He desired the same harmony exactly for his followers (John 17:11, 22).

What Jesus did so brilliantly, anticipating no doubt controversy about his own status in relation to the one GOD, YHVH, was to teach them immediately about Psalm 110:1: “The LORD says to my lord: ‘Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet.’”

That Psalm, verses 1-4, is alluded to or cited 33 times in the NT and was decisive and should be decisive for us too. In Psalm 110:1 YHVH is still one single self (as 7,000 times in the OT). He directs an oracle to some other self. This of course defeats Modalism, which says that the Father and Son are the same Person. Modalism shows how terribly mired in controversy and unnecessary complexity our subject can become! Surely one does not need a PhD to tell us that a Father cannot be his own Son! Jesus never imagined such a thing, and the Trinitarians agree.

What Jesus shows in Psalm 110:1 is that the exalted Jesus is not a second YHVH or a second Person “in YHVH.” Rather he, the Messiah, is the supremely exalted man Messiah, my lord, the man Christ Jesus.” One God and one man Messiah. Two selves. One of them is GOD. The Bible is about God and man, not God and another God!

The issues we are discussing are simply huge, since billions of human beings deserve to hear who God and Jesus really are. At present the very complex philosophical Trinity smothers good information. And few seem to know that the church fathers, the orchestrators of the Trinity, admitted that they were deliberately eliminating the “Jewish error!” That “Jewish error” was in fact the teaching of Jesus. How much does the public know of what really went on?

The word God in the NT means the Father 1300 times. “Do we not all have one Father? Has not one God created us” (Mal. 2:10). None of the roughly 11,000 occurrences of the various words for God (Elohim, YHVH, Adonai, Theos) every means a Triune God. So in the Bible when someone says “God” he never means a Triune God.

John A.T. Robinson: “John saw Christ as also being unique, a distinction he recognizes by reserving the word ‘Son’ for Jesus and ‘children of God’ for Christians. But, unlike later dogmaticians [church fathers], he shows no awareness of a contradiction or even of a tension at this point. Indeed, it is of the essence of his insight into the incarnation [lower-case ‘i’!] that moral affinity and metaphysical union should not be seen as the alternatives they so disastrously were in the subsequent dispute between Antioch and Alexandria. Jesus can say in the same discourse that ‘the Father is in me and I in the Father’ (10:38) and ‘my Father and I are one’ (10:30), because he is acting as his Father would (10:37), and his deeds are done in His name (10:25).

“Again he says in a later discourse (14:9-10), ‘Anyone who has seen me has seen the Father because I am not myself the source of the words I speak to you: it is the Father who dwells in me doing his own work.’ He is ‘God’s only Son,’ the very ‘exegesis’ [explanation] of the Father (1:18). Indeed he is himself ‘theos,’ ‘what God is’ (1:1), because as a mere man (10:33) Jesus is utterly transparent to another, who is ‘greater than himself’ (14:28) and indeed ‘greater than all’ (10:29). The paradox is staggering, and it is no wonder that this Christology [John’s understanding of who Jesus is] later fell apart at the seams. But for John there is no antithesis, any more than there is for the author to the Hebrews, between humanity and divinity, the historical and the theological.”

Jesus is fully expressive of God, his Father. But Jesus never, ever claimed to be GOD, which would have contradicted the unitary monotheism of his Hebrew heritage, agreeing with a fellow Jew (Mark 12:28-34). A claim to be GOD would have violated the greatest of all the commandments! Jesus is the man Messiah (1 Tim. 2:5), the “my lord” of Psalm 110:1, a text which will yet change the world.⟲

The Insignificance of the Number 3

by Alane Rozelle, Michigan

Christian orthodoxy declares that God is one God manifested in three divine persons. It further states that this mystery was foreshadowed in the three “men” who appeared to Abraham, for example, and is demonstrated in the presence of all three “divine persons” at Jesus’ baptism. As a response to the protest that Scripture repeatedly declares that there is only one God, orthodoxy states that the word “one” or “echad” in Hebrew can be understood as a compound one, a unity of several persons or things.

But then how is it decided when one means one and when it means more than 1? How is the Bible student to know if “echad” (supposedly) being used in a “plural unity” manner and when it truly means just one single thing? And how are we to be certain that this plural unity equals 3, not 6 or 8? Jude 1:4b says: “[They are] ungodly persons who turn the grace of our God into licentiousness and deny our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ.” Does only mean only or does it mean more than 1 in that example? If it means more than one, then our Lord Jesus Christ must have multiple personalities. I don’t know of anyone in orthodoxy who would say that Jude 1:4 is revealing a triune Jesus. Yet when God says He is the only one it is claimed He is more than 1.

However, let us go on to the purpose of this article which is to examine whether groupings of three in Scripture or in nature point to a triune God. Is it true that mentioning three things together proves a trinity? Does grouping three things or people together create a “three-in-one” unity?

We have long noted the insistence by orthodoxy that Matthew 28:19 supports the theory of the Trinity because Jesus purportedly ordered the disciples to baptize “in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit” (NIV). Matthew 3:16-17 (repeated in Luke 3:22) is used in a similar manner. Because all three “entities” — Jesus being baptized, the Spirit of God in the form of a dove, and the voice of his Father from heaven — are mentioned as present in one scene, the Trinity is declared to be represented and attested to. After those two passages, teachers of orthodoxy look long and hard for further 3-in-1 proofs. One stretch is 1 Peter 1:2. This verse is used to support belief in the Trinity simply because all 3 are included in one long sentence: “[You] are chosen in order to obtain the glory of our God, [and] will be sprinkled with his blood.” Nothing there should suggest that the three “persons” constitute one “God” simply because they appear together.

Let’s consider other examples of three persons being grouped together in Scripture. When Moses grew tired of holding his arms up in the air during the battle between the Israelites and the Amalekites, Aaron and Hur stood on either side of him, each supporting one of Moses’ arms. Does this mean that Moses, Aaron and Hur were three persons in one essence? (Ex. 17:11-12).

When Elijah and Moses appeared with Jesus on the mountain (Matt. 17:3), does this indicate that the three of them are three persons in one essence? No one in their right mind should believe such nonsense. Yet this is what we are told to believe whenever God the Father, Jesus His Son, and the holy spirit are mentioned anywhere near each other in the Bible.

Now let’s look at scriptures which mention three things together. Both Titus 1:4 and 2 John 1:3 mention 3 things together — “grace, mercy and peace will be with us.” Are they all 3 the same in essence, one substance? Are they 3 beings — Grace, Mercy and Peace — who will be “with us” literally and tangibly? Are they three virtues in one virtue, each virtue not to be confused with another virtue, yet all the same virtue? The indignant, and rightly so, response is that such a statement is ridiculous, yet that’s the same reasoning applied to 1 Peter 1:2 — that the mention of 3 things together makes them a unity.

This is blatant biased selection of scriptures to support an unsupportable belief. It would be just as easy to find 4 or 7 things listed together to prove that God is a quad-ity or a hept-ity. Daniel 8:22 mentions the four horns that represent four kingdoms. Proverbs 6:16-19 lists together seven things that are an abomination to God. It is ridiculous, however, to say that these passages indicate that God is 4 or 7 persons in one God. It is equally nonsensical to claim that the grouping of three persons or three things together in Scripture constitutes a “plural unity.”

Turning from Scripture to nature, is it true, as orthodoxy claims, that the “frequent” occurrence of groupings of 3 (leaflets, phases of matter, etc.) in nature demonstrates and proves the Trinity? I recently came across a curious youtube video called “Trinities of Nature” that slyly aims to prove the Trinity through pointing out all the “threes” in the created world. The music, the pictures, and the wording are cleverly designed to convince the unquestioning viewer that the Creator left His triune footprint throughout His creation. The deception is easy to debunk, however, with minimal research.

TRINITIES of particle physics: quarks, leptons, bosons.

FAIL: A quick internet search reveals a list of 7 elementary particles.

TRINITIES of light: 3 primary colors combine to form white light.

FAIL: The 3 primary colors combine to form black. White light consists of all 7 colors of the rainbow. (Uh-oh, there’s that pesky number 7 popping up again.)

TRINITY of phases of matter: gas, liquid, solid.

FAIL: What about plasma, critical fluids and some degenerate gases?

TRINITY of balance of ecology: minerals, plants, animals.

FAIL: Did you forget humans?

TRINITY of humanity: 3 subgroups of humans are Negroid, Mongoloid, and Caucasian.

FAIL: First of all, these are arbitrary man-made divisions not based in scripture. God created one race, the human race. All genetic configurations were included in the DNA of the first two humans God created. Second, the Horniman Museum in London contains a display about Homo Sapiens Sapiens featuring 4 divisions: the 3 mentioned above with the addition of Austroloids.

TRINITY of the human family: father, mother, child.

FAIL: What if they have more than one child? What if, as in many cultures, the father has multiple wives? What if a single woman adopts? What about grandparents, aunts and uncles, cousins? There are far more possibilities than this father-mother-child triad.

TRINITY of the universe #1: earth, moon, sun.

FAIL: stars, galaxies, black holes, meteors, more planets . . . I could go on.

TRINITY of the universe #2: space, matter, time.

FAIL: Science lists at least four by including energy.

TRINITY of the universe #3: width, height, depth.

FAIL: Scientists include time as a 4th dimension.

(Seeing a lot of 4s now. Hmmmm….)

TRINITY of time: past, present, future.

FAIL: That still proves nothing about who God is. There are 60 seconds in a minute, 60 minutes in an hour, 24 hours in a day, 7 days in a week, 52 weeks in a year, 365.2425 days in a year, 24 time zones. No 3s in any of that. Unfortunately, the naïve, unsuspecting, trusting viewer of such a video or hearer of a lecture will be gob-smacked by these amazing revelations of 3s in nature.

I add, in closing, that many other numbers can be found just as abundantly in nature as can the number 3. The 3-leaved shamrock is popularly held up as pointing to the Trinity, however, thousands of other plants have 5, 7, or more petals. Use of the shamrock is like proof-texting.

Fives are also plentiful in nature. Humans have five fingers on each hand and five toes on each foot. Stars are typically drawn with 5 points and starfish have 5 arms. We have 5 senses and there are 5 phases of mitosis (cell division).

Moving up the number chart, there are 7 colors in the rainbow, 7 days in which God created, and 7 notes on the musical scale. In the Bible, the dreams of Pharaoh, interpreted by Joseph, are full of sevens; seven priests with 7 trumpets marched around Jericho 7 times; and wisdom has 7 pillars. The book of Revelation is replete with sevens, including 7 candlesticks, 7 spirits, and 7 churches. The ritual Menorah candlestick, still used in Judaism, has 7 branches. The number seven in the Bible is said to be the number of completeness and perfection. If any number could be used to represent God, it should be the number 7 not 3.

Therefore, the number 3 cannot claim any more significance in nature than any other number, and doesn’t prove anything about God being a Trinity. Alternatively, God is not 4 or 5 or 7 either. Let us return to the clear language of Scripture: God is one. One means one.✧

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Why Do You Want to Go to Heaven When Jesus Won’t Be There?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

The scene of the future Kingdom of God will be on this renewed earth. It will be a new society on earth, presided over by Jesus who will be the first totally successful world-President. Oikoumene (cp. “economy”) in Hebrews 2:5 means the world of men and their civilizations (NET Bible Commentary). Nothing could be more misleading than “heaven” as the Christian future. “Heaven” is a complete diversion from Christian hope. It forces the mind into a false and imaginative hope, a home in the skies! The Gospel promises no such thing. Hope must be defined as the Bible defines it. Faith and love suffer immediately if “hope” is misdefined. Faith and love are based on, because of, hope (Col. 1:4-5). God has not yet finished with this planet earth which He designed to be successfully inhabited by man, with Jesus as the ideal man and ruler. Jesus will rule on the renewed earth with his saints (Rev. 2:26-27; 3:21; 5:10; 20:1-6, etc). Please see the chart on the next page to show your friends.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Event</th>
<th>Scripture References</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Resurrection of the saints of all the ages</td>
<td>Luke 4:43; Acts 8:12; 19:8; 20:24-25; 28:23, 31</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Second Coming of Jesus (Parousia)</td>
<td>Gen. 49:10; cp. Ps. 2, 8, 72, 80, 89, 132; Gen. 49:10; Ezek. 21:27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jesus Now at Right Hand of God</td>
<td>Ps. 110:1; Heb. 10:12-13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Second Resurrection</td>
<td>(all the rest of the dead, Rev. 20:5)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Resurrection of Jesus</td>
<td>1 Cor. 15:3; Acts 10:40-41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crucifixion</td>
<td>1 Cor. 15:3; Acts 10:40-41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LIFE OF JESUS</td>
<td>70th wk</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PRESENT EVIL AGE</td>
<td>All the Dead Asleep; Ps. 6:5; 13:3; Ecc. 9:5; Jn. 5:28-29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THE COMING AGE</td>
<td>The rest of the dead lived not again until the 1000 years ended (Rev. 20:5)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THE REIGN OF CHRIST AND THE SAINTS ON EARTH</td>
<td>Rev. 20:1-6; 2:26-27; 3:21; 5:10; Isa. 32:1; 2 Tim. 2:12; 1 Cor. 6:2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LITTLE SEASON RESURRECTION</td>
<td>Rev. 20:3,7-10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THE KINGDOM OF GOD</td>
<td>Universal disarmament and world peace</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Comments

“I have been reading the Bible and I have come to the realization from scriptures that Jesus is not God. There are many scriptures that let us know that he is not God: Num. 23:19; Matt. 24:36; Mark 13:32; John 5:26; Heb. 1-9. The list goes on. I have also been listening to Sean Finnegan who is excellent and I find the website 21st Century Reformation (www.21ster.org) very informative.” — Sweden

“For about 19 years I’ve been a JW (more than 11 years as an elder — until not so long ago). I diligently wanted to know and serve God (still do, more than ever), and being attracted by the (important) half of JW teaching that is true, their zeal, their refusal to perform worldly military service, and their humility to do door-to-door preaching of their understanding of the Bible and the Good News, I joined them, assuming the rest of their teachings must be mostly true as well. I was not aware of any alternative, and concluded that this must indeed be God’s international organization, as they claim to be. However, later on I experienced more and more discomfort in regard to both organizational matters and specific teachings, as well as the impossibility to openly discuss any of this discomfort and/or change anything about it. (As you’re probably aware, JW’s rely completely on whatever comes top-down from the organization, which is regarded as God’s only channel for Bible interpretation, teaching and instruction. Discussion is not appreciated.) For some time I’ve been studying the beliefs of biblical unitarians as conveyed in books and articles from people related to the Church of God, Abrahamic Faith, General Conference, including those on your website. I love critically studying these things and am now convinced that a lot of what you believe is true and I feel truly grateful to God for gaining a much better understanding of Scripture and Bible prophecy. (I now see how especially JW's 1914 teaching and their interpretation of the 144,000 have a significant negative impact on JW theology as well as on the personal experience of JW's in relationship to God and Jesus.) Please understand that I love my 8.5 million JW-brothers and sisters a lot. They’re mostly sincere and really nice people.” — Netherlands

“I just received the November Focus on the Kingdom. Your opening article was truly wonderful! You covered so well how often the Gospel of the Kingdom was preached by Jesus and the Apostles, and how most of the time it did not include the message about the Messiah’s death and resurrection! It was truly eye-opening how off-kilter today’s modern churches are with their message. We attended another Christian church’s service here in town recently just to see what it was like, and honestly it seemed like such an empty shell. It was so much about people going through the motions of ‘church’ while something big just felt like it (or He) was missing. Very nice people, but it saddened me quite a lot because it just seems like God is pulling away from the mainstream Christian churches. He does not seem present at the services. I also enjoy reading the comments sent in from readers from around the world! It is wonderful to see how God’s Spirit is working in individual hearts scattered all over the globe and how he is using your ministry to connect us all.” — Tennessee

“Just a quick note to say thank you for all your immeasurable Christian love and kindness through the Focus on the Kingdom and past books. Thank you so much for all you are doing for me in this narrow way to the glorious kingdom of God. Thank you for the color you add to my life and walk with God and understanding of the Truth of God's word! You have been a big blessing from the Lord to me. I appreciate you and esteem your brotherly care, love and guidance so much.” — Nigeria

Simple Kingdom videos by Majo: https://youtu.be/AiXeb8wtN0I
Sermon by Tracy Zhykhovich: https://youtu.be/6Pwc5XJLskc

The Church of God General Conference in partnership with Anthony Buzzard and the Restoration Fellowship, is making plans to plant new churches starting next year in the following locations:

- Los Angeles, California
- Hayward, California (Bay area)
- Dallas, Texas
- Ft. Worth, Texas
- Houston, Texas
- Denver, Colorado
- Colorado Springs, Colorado
- Miami, Florida
- Tampa, Florida
- Orlando, Florida

Please get in touch with Robin Todd, U.S. Mission Coordinator, if you would like more information or would like to be a part of the core membership and/or leadership in these communities. His email address is robinsings4u@comcast.net. Phone number is 360-701-9219.